

MT SPEC COMMERCIAL 2

EXT. CAFE - MORNING

A variety of cars and trucks are parked outside. We see a customer hold the door open for a couple. The sounds of breakfast bridges a cut to...

INT. CAFE - MORNING

Conversation mixes with cutlery. Coffee steams into the air. The café is busy and welcoming. A window borders an expansive landscape outside.

INT. CAFE - TABLE

With one hand, a waitress removes empty plates from a MAN and a WOMAN's table. She holds a pot of coffee in the other, offering a refill.

WAITRESS

I remember when you were a three-cup-gal.

THREE-CUP-GAL

Doctor Barnes said best for me to stick to two these days.

WAITRESS

Did he say what size...

She is interrupted by a loud voice.

LOUD VOICE (O.S.)

The wild eggs and bacon combo, please. With a side of grits.

WAITRESS

They just moved here. Anne and Brian.

Three Cup Gal's husband harumphs. It's a common occurrence, these newcomers and their loud voices.

THREE-CUP-GAL

Tsk, tsk. Bernard, remember when we first arrived. What, it took us a week to control our Montana voice.

WAITRESS

"I remember it being a month!"

INT. CAFE

Across the café we see people smirking, smiling, and then continuing their breakfast. We fade out to the normal sounds of breakfast, cutlery, and conversation.

NARRATOR (V.O.)

You'll want to yell out here. But that doesn't mean you should. Come find your Montana voice.
